I have met a lot of famous and powerful people since last summer when I moved to Albuquerque to take my first job out of graduate school with Sandia National Labs. To the best of my knowledge this was the location of the famous Area51 (Argentina; sun port). This post is a follow up to the last post in this thread from last year. There is a lot more to all this that I cannot or for a number of reasons will not yet write here. I have been encouraged to eventually write a book. I also want to make sure that my archived records are eventually public domain so they will stick to the historical record and will not end up classified into obscurity or deleted entirely.

I want to go through a lawyer to make sure that Nancy Pelosi has complete copies of SMS/text sessions that were exchanged the day her husband was tragically murdered. This was the afternoon Elon Musk bought Twitter. I am certain that I was chatting with Liz Cheney, a member of the January 6th congressional committee, using an alias following the previous post. I'm also considering going through a lawyer to see if I can take up part of the state department's bounty for 2016 election fraud (mentioned/linked above). I have documentation of strange timezone data on a phone I purchased elsewhere that suggest gerrymandering of countries and continents (in effect to suggest double and triple counting of USA territories) with extra timezones from Indiana, Kentucky, Antarctica and many other non-standard oddities.

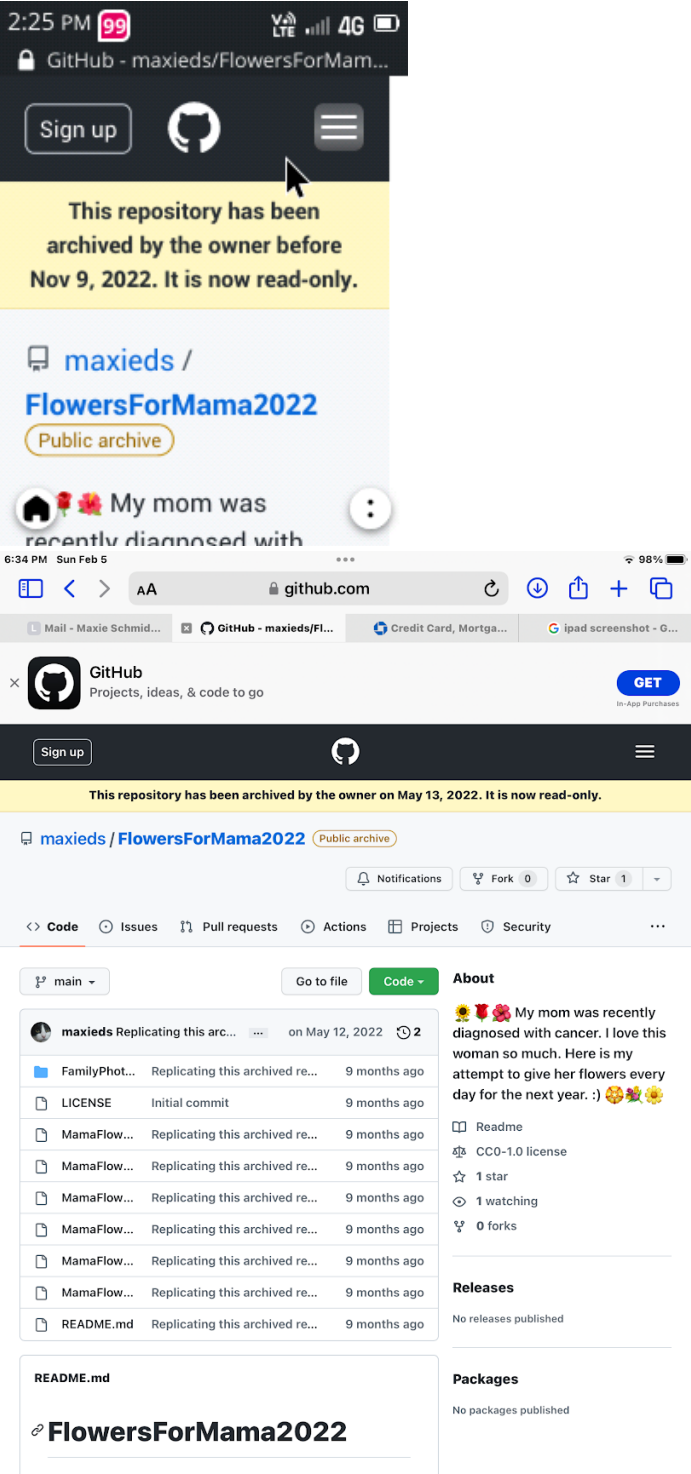

I briefly met Jim Jordan (Ohio representative) unexpectedly at a bus stop in Florida. He was polite to me that day. This is an apparent reference to the then private repository (link: <https://github.com/maxieds/InMemoryOfCrazyPrePandemicFlorida>) having been examined following the FBI tip report that I created it to accompany. One detail that I recall being in one of those documents was about a private Twitter feed by a young red haired snowboarder named Jason Zych with approximately 3.3M private followers. Days after I had submitted a tip report containing that detail, Adam Kinsinger (Illinois representative), also on the January 6th committee, clarified its meaning without context on CNN. He said it was the number of active duty USA military available to deploy to the capitol on January 6, 2021. That means that the organizers of the capitol violence intended to take power and control of Washington D.C. by force in an apparent fascist coup. The capitol riots that started on January 6, 2021 at President Biden's inauguration were a bloody siege on Washington that took (depending on which news report) nearly a week to quell. CNN has termed these events 'The Insurrection'. I have heard that China backs Biden should we need them to maintain control of the country.

I left Florida on a flight through Atlanta earlier this year (2023). I got off the first leg of my flight into the custody of UNICEF in a wheelchair. I spent nearly five days having to stay awake in an international airport while Donald Trump's first indictment in Manhattan went through the news. Governor of Florida, Ron DeSantis, was apparently too busy talking to Fox News about blocking the extradition of Trump from his Mar A Lago golf course resort to face charges out of state in New York with the National Guard even (I recall) to notice the VR/AR game free for all that was happening in Northern Florida. There was an exotic Porsche 911 sports car on the highest level of the airport parking deck that I saw having to go up there to get air from lower levels on the night of 3/31/2023 to 4/1/2023 (April Fools Day). One of the nights I had to spend inside the airport had a startling ROKO television broadcast (surely CG). It was of Trump burning his way through the Southern USA then burning his way up the notorious 'Bridge to Nowhere' before swan diving off the abrupt end into the safety of the seas of Jupiter (cf. Miranda Lambert's 'Kerosene' music video). This is an apparent reference to Sherman's March from the American Civil War (first apparent American civil war) of the 1800's.

The newspaper photo above features a quote that my late mother was fond of repeating. I do not believe that this is a coincidence. She taught at the University of North Carolina Greensboro when I was a child and has many friends there. Notice that the newspaper features a price of FREE, not OPEN like Trump's OpenWall with Mexico campaign promise from 2015. Did the security personnel, or roughly speaking the American Hacker Corps (and the best around at that frankly speaking), from Uncle Kevin's HackHaus on Broadway stick it to that evil MF-er this time (this decade) or what: Trumpy, Trumpy, Trumpy, Trumpy put the light saber back in its holster before someone (not somebody) gets hurt (note four T's rather than three biblically)? I have predicted for years living around all this political madness that Kevin should eventually be a witness for the prosecution. Will he take the job? They would have had something (with the FBI) to do with routing the (almost surely) darkweb traffic Trump assumed was so covert through New York followed by Chicago based on visual traceroute maps while I was in Florida. The issue was about jurisdiction if the DOJ would not step in to charge him at the federal level. This is what we did to F-CK TRUMP this year. My reaction is: Oh, oh no, he's unhappy; he doesn't LIKE that. Too bad stats devil. Enjoy prison, as-hole (NY accent)! After I tried to get GitHub support to let me pay off my Pro account bill for five years to make sure the Florida documents repo would be there if something happened to me (it did), they changed the site to include free private repositories and a successor to be named to take over administration of the account in the event of the original account holder's death. I named Jared / Lucky225 (the real Jason's twin) as my successor. This means the hackers are responsible for ensuring the freedom of all my information.

Since fleeing Florida for Illinois this year, I had an encounter with Trump in person on Juneteenth (cf. this link: <https://github.com/maxieds/ChameleonMiniDESFireStack/releases>). He came by me with two of his sons through marriages on a bike trail in Lincoln Park across from a grassy knoll. He arranged for actors/models that looked like cartoon versions of my parents to sit on the hill opposite from me wearing white sun glasses with stupid grins in the style of the Twenty One Pilot's 'Ride' music video (these men are satanic). The man wanted to taunt me with having to get a job as a parttime insurance salesman to make ends meet within a year of getting my doctorate. To which I started back: 'Daddy was a draft dodger' (USS John McCain and reference to Cher's 'If I could turn back time' music video). This is typical of the man. He wanted to know if I was God and presumably if I had come to Earth to destroy him? Keep in mind that the man has a Hassidic rabbi light on the side of his tower that he displayed when he had to appear in court with Marjorie Taylor Greene for the charges in Manhattan this year. The light has text that reads: 'The messiah is in'. We can interpret this to mean that he views him being indicted for a small fraction of representative charges of all the misdeeds he is guilty of as a sign that God has come to Earth. Again, this is typical of the attitude of him being effectively untouchable. I flicked him off with my left (sinister) middle finger and used my right hand to walk scissors over to the left. Janet Jackson had just toured through our TOWN (not LAND). This must have been the reason for my reply: 'Miss Clinton if you're nasty' (i.e., Hillary Rodham is God, and she will cut t off your body before you die)! He gave me the middle finger before leaving with Barron and Don Junior through the parking lot. Some of his recent charges are about bribery and extortion to silence Stormy Danel from speaking openly about the mark of the beast on his penis while running for reelection. What does it look like? News reports in this country unfortunately omit that telling detail (very, very bad news).

I am going to end this post with photos of my family who were the most important thing to me in this life. Check out the links on the side panel of my GitHub profile (this one: <https://youtu.be/UvjeWcaDliM>; see the liner notes). The first is of a family portrait of my mom, sister and I when we were children. She is doing her best Snow White / Evil Queen pucker with the kids. The next one is of my dad giving the eulogy at my mother's funeral in their yard in Florida on Friday May 13, 2022 wearing his favorite Georgia Tech mathematics shirt. Was this a mafia reference to some of the other attendees that may never be charged in Florida? My father would not let me attend. I watched the ceremony live on Zoom from my graduate school apartment in Atlanta instead. The last one is of me and my cat Kush (dad term: the Kushinator) in Casper, Wyoming on my mom's first birthday since she passed when we were trapped in Yellowstone National Park last year. There is a repository I have created in memory of my mother: <https://github.com/maxieds/FlowersForMama2022> (and here: <https://github.com/maxieds/FlowersForMama2022-Original>). The dedication of my doctoral thesis at Georgia Tech is in her memory (see the first few pages): <https://arxiv.org/abs/2209.12287>. A favorite saying of my dad was 'live and let live'. This lyric can be found in the Traveling Wilbury's 'End of the line' song. He was also fond of complaining about Regan's classification of ketchup as a national vegetable for Americans at the poverty level on food stamps. I was prepped/briefed by my father for a special operations mission down to the land where search engines index the darkweb. I remember him saying 'there's nothing they can do to you that they haven't already done' and 'my kid will end up alive' (here Bidy, Bidy, Bidy to the tune of here kitty - thanks for the adrenaline shot in Casper, bro). The cat was with me the whole time (up until Florida). My dad requested that I 'kill Trump when you see him' before my mother died knowing the reasons she had been attacked brutally by members of the far right in this country (for speaking freely and submitting FBI tip reports). I hope this is good enough to make the old man happy wherever he is now.
