Bruce,

Can you search your old emails for me (possibly including both UIUC and GMail)? I am looking for copies of my NSF GRFP application essays (personal and research statements) from 2012 and 2013. The assistance is much appreciated.

Maxie

Hi, Maxie. I'm attaching what I could find. Please let me know if there are other things you want. I found resume/cv drafts which I don't think are what you have in mind.

Good to hear from you and may next year be better for all of us.

Glad to help.

I'm on a search committee this semester, and the chair, Rick Laugesen, cautioned me not to delete any of the emails of our discussion. I responded by sending him an unimportant email he had sent me ... in 1999. I don't delete emails, though I think I probably will make that one of my retirement projects.

Bruce,

Many months ago I asked you (implicitly your overachieving Harvard law sibling to help me figure out legal recourse in Atlanta. I think the suggestion was to wait until after I graduated to see if I'm still angry enough to do it. I am going to pursue this by talking with an attorney. Space away from the East Coast let me spend a lot of time thinking and putting together the dots of past and recent history.

BTW, looking into the long-term fraud on my Bank of America bank accounts opened in 2005, motivated recently by finding out my identity was stolen in Atlanta (maybe as late as August of 2021), while trying to finance a car loan (that at six figures, much less mortgage to move from renter to property owner) yielded some informative discovery using DuckFuckGo rather than Google. The crux of what I want you to know is that Pence/Trump/Bannon are neo-Nazis. They have systematically (seemingly) irrevocably put backdoors into every major computer platform (Android, desktop - even my beloved Linux circa 2004). That is just source code.

I saw in my phone news feed an article corroborating the existence of some really, really f-ing nasty combinations of instructions at the hardware level of nearly every major or large scale deployment of an ISA that is commercially available. The security vulnerabilities engineered into these everyday platforms suggests an observation that is plain to see if you are a CS professional. Namely, massive and widespread financial fraud that is tied to money laundering for the Russian Mafia. Putin is the richest man in the world? Indeed, but bank account balance figures are all really an intangible, how highly malleable currency, right? I think someone drugged me with "truth serum" the night before I started putting that together.

Incidentals: Zuckerberg and virtual reality; Musk sending Americans to Mars on a genocidal death journey to nowhere/ of no return; Jeff Bezos going to space cover live on CNN by Anderson (keep 'em honest) Cooper (Richard Branson is probably okay...).

You may not have heard the name in years. I just want you to know what v is let, filthy, offensive little asshole Justin Kopinsky is. His start up after MIT is called Neural Magic: Note the last word and obvious reference to Hitler era Maxie occult, especially if you know what the product line are designed to be COTS controllers for. I am sure that he is Becky Hendrick's (bastard) son. I encountered him the first time in 2004 when I was a freshman CS major. That was before teenage Satan in training was of legal age to troll around a university campus. Most men that age grow out of it. He didn't because you cannot reverse inbred sociopathy, unfortunately.

Another more palatable question for you later. Just think about what I said. Don't shoot the messenger.

Bannon/QANON/(even Al Qaeda) have large scale operations on the dark web. Avoid it like the plague if possible. It's all very accessible if you are in the know, and intentionally obscured from targets, kind of like the architecture of DC. This is an obnoxious countercultural behavior that heretofore is not openly discussed like it should be. Say what you will about Al Gore, and his government DARPA net research. The dark web (reference to spiders / devil in the Christian branch of the Torah most people call the Bible).

Incidental: Michael Lacey putting an Elizabeth Warren bumper sticker on his wife's gas guzzling SUV in 2020 to celebrate COVID.

Bruce,

Also, while on something like truth serum, I had an imaginative dream while awake. I envisioned myself dressed in the very nice interview suit my mom made my dad buy me this year conversing with Pence, and then outside the prison bars with the evil, smug asswipe Bannon sitting on his bed bench. It sounds better in my head.

It went something like: "Ahhh! Hello. Allow me to introduce myself. I'm the Nazi Killer. God sent me down as a woman this time! It's a warning: She's really fuggin' pissed. The next time it comes up, she'll be down to earth on her high horse herself. --- Pause for dramatic effect --- Men, (at ease) proceed as usual."

My head showed me that they both run like hell out of the room. Cowards like cockroaches back to the woodwork from whence the came.

Sorry if I'm a bit distracted today.

Robin had her first cataract surgery yesterday, on the eye that had the detached retina in April. It went well; she won't get "normal" vision back, but she can definitely see things. The other eye is in two weeks, and that's supposed to be set to 20/20, though she'll need reading and computer glasses.

And I learned from Facebook that my best friend in high school, Phil Neches, died a couple of days ago. He was a big shot in 70s/80s computer development and a Caltech Trustee. There was a group of three of us who used to hang out in high school; we all got STEM PhDs: Phil from Caltech in CS, and David from MIT in chemistry, and now I'm the only one left. Seems too soon, but that happens a lot.

Bruce,

It's understandable, believe me. I was put on unconditional paid leave from work to take care of myself for at least the rest of this week. Georgia Tech finally sent my dad my diploma. Someday I'll share the document apparently snarfed off my work Mac Book that probably motivated someone to just do it. Outstanding remaining debt to the (bursar's office at) university standing.

I think I'm a sane person in a crazy world most of the time anyway. And I swear I caught the tail end of an appointment with the leasing office at my apartment complex with Elon Musk in penguin socks.

Can you do me a favor? Please submit a copy of this email message thread to the January 6th Committee.

I just recently submitted the forms to get my clearance. It will be 3-4 months until I can be put in federal prison on grounds of false allegations that I conspired to share classified information. At that point, I will have to use better judgement and keep my f-ing g-damn mouth shut (e.g., Shut The Fuck Up, thank you Don, for reiterating that sentiment).

Awareness of this type of (apparently) classified information about underground hate and violence in this country is too dangerous to keep from public view. Can Biden be moved to grow a pair and stand up to the arch nemesis of Mrs. Clinton? So thinks some smartass outspoken Jewish bitch from Illinois (pardon the vulgarity).
