

Longer term history with respondent

Notes for case #23OP76293

Document created by Dr. Maxie Dion Schmidt

Updated on August 27, 2023

1 Introduction

The judge for my initial court hearing to obtain an order of protection encouraged me to come to this hearing in person to give more details to the long term history of the case to justify obtaining this order in Chicago. These are the notes I have prepared for the second judge. She told me at my court hearing in August (now continued into September) that she would read these notes after I was able to locate an active address for the respondent to be served papers notifying him that he may appear at the hearing.

2 Incidents since the first court hearing

- Police report #JG387311 filed after I moved to my new apartment on August 16, 2023. I communicated to the officers that I suspect that the respondent was responsible for keying into my apartment multiple times. I had oddities with my cell phone service provider being reported as a strange 'AT&T...1' instead of the usual service provider. My phone was on with the abnormal service provider during the travel to my new residence. I believe this is how he tracked me there. How he got into my building with locked gates and locked doors is something I do not understand.

The same day I requested that my apartment building manager pull the video waiting for a detective to be assigned to send to the police, there was a man outside my apartment snickering at me. He proceeded to call the phone number for leasing posted outside of my building to complain about cameras outside given that there is a school across the street. I believe the respondent is responsible for this. It reflects his attitude which is to continue his behavior and make attempts to prevent himself from getting caught entering the apartment building. It can also be construed as being actively aggressive towards me as the victim of all this.

- I recognized Andre Torres (known associate of the respondent) in a white minivan about a block from my previous residence. This was about two weeks before I moved.

- At my old residence, I would frequently visit the beach bike trails in Lincoln Park. The week I saw Andre in the minivan, I had an encounter with some strangers shouting at me in the park sitting at a bench in front of yacht (boat) parking. They told me that there was a man with a phone looking at me awkwardly. They urged me to leave. When I returned to the park later that afternoon there were oddities like street lights on during the daylight on my street route.
- There was an exchange over email with someone using my sister's email address since the first court date. The language and writing style was disorganized and not characteristic of her short messages prior to that including berating me for a number of things and with details about my life events this and last year that I had not disclosed to my sister. This was an apparent reaction to my long email preceding that message where I gave many details of some of the unusual events I have experienced the last year and a half including accounts of the verbal exchange with former president Donald Trump and two of his sons in Lincoln Park in Chicago on Juneteenth of this year (more details of the exchange can be provided if requested for the court hearing). The unusual email message used the wording 'disheartening' which is not usual for my sister's vocabulary as a community college student in her mid thirties. The wording of 'disheartening' is also striking to me because it is how I described the feeling of not having the emergency order of protection granted at my first hearing to a confidant in the group home I was living at. Apparently, someone overheard the conversation and reported my wording back to whomever had sent that email (most likely, Andre Torres, using her phone). This is another example of the type of non-in-person stalking that I have to endure connected to the respondent and his known associates.
- Since moving to my new apartment, my neighborhood along the routes to destinations I printed at the public library near my last residence were papered / graffit-ed with items intended to intimidate me, or otherwise let me know that these men were around and aware of the second court hearing in August of 2023. A few of them included copy shop print outs of handwritten messages stating the following: 'Kim Foxx is a child abusing crook'. After the second court date on the second floor of the domestic violence courthouse at 555 W Harrison, I recognized the name of the state attorney, Kimberly Foxx, on her office door while sitting outside of the courtroom waiting to check in for the hearing.

This is typical of the men connected to Trump and Musk (see the next background sections). That is, to run a smear campaign as though real life (NOT a game) were a high school popularity contest or a vicious political campaign for public office. I interpret the 'child' reference in the quote as meaning 'kid', which is the way that satanic adults refer to themselves, i.e., as children or kids of the devil. By allowing me to petition for the order of protection, the respondent and his friends view the courthouse officials as being harsh (even abusive) towards them by not allowing them to act out towards me in their stalking episodes.

3 More related background

3.1 Longer term background

- Antisemitism is a major factor in the stalking, violence and traumatic events I have had to go through because these men were in close proximity to me. These men are neo-nazis and are satanic. Having been exposed to members of a hateful satanic cult should go very far to justify what I have had to go through with them around me and why I need to have them as far away from me as possible by law. These people will do me more harm if this continues.
- My cousin started dating one of Donald Trump's sons by a mistress (extra-marital affair) in approximately 2012–2013. This is when my family and I started being attacked on a frequent basis. I have been very severely drugged against my will and raped countless times (including by him, McDonald Provosty) since he came into the picture. I had neighbors from Argentina living on my floor at Georgia Tech my last year there completing my doctorate, who like Zach, were not graduate students. According to McDonald, Argentina is where Hitler escaped to after WWII.
- The respondent, Zack Bradford, introduced himself to me at one point as X Musk, one of the billionaire Elon Musk's children. This was in Atlanta in 2020. I was introduced to him by that name in the room with his sister, Y Musk. The single letter names, X and Y, are a reference to chromosomes. I have inside knowledge that their father believes he is the devil. The names signify that humans (women in particular) are kids of the devil.
- The inner circles of men with these type of billionaire funds lets them do things and pay people off to get away with nearly any sick thing they want to do to someone else, like me. These men really believe that they can do anything to anyone they feel like with the expectation that no harsh consequences will ever come to them for their actions. They believe they are above the law and untouchable in this way. My experience with men like the respondent and McDonald is that they have never understood the meaning of the word 'No' the way normal people learn the concept early on. Moreover, it is impossible to penalize these people in civil court with anything close to their monetary worth when they would literally take everything from me, up to and including attempts on my own life. This bolsters their attitude.
- Since moving to Albuquerque for my first job out of graduate school with Sandia National Labs, where I was very brutally targeted and attacked by these men, I have met many famous and powerful people. This includes members of the US congress, including members of the January 6th committee. I also met Sean Penn in Bogota and saw him on my bus coming into Chicago through Gary, Indiana. My husband was murdered in front of me in 2006 with a large bullet wound and a swastika drawn on his chest. My mother communicated to me before she died that Trump was responsible for organizing the violence my family has experienced for decades. My Uber driver to the airport in Colombia (after meeting Sean) was someone I recognized as a CNN affiliate. He asked me if I had a husband. With in a month of going back to Pensacola, Florida after having been kidnapped and brutally assaulted while there, Fareed Zakaria made a reference on air to one of my dead husband's favorite lecture hall sayings: 'Let's get started' (with a very warm smile).

3.2 Background since the respondent moved next door in Atlanta (approximately January 2020)

- I have first hand knowledge that the respondent is savvy with paying for things (effectively anything he wants) with bitcoins on the darkweb. This includes drugs and illicit black market technology. Please refer to the first police report I gave on the paperwork for my first Illinois civil court date: #JG348851.
- The respondent made a snide comment to me about him thinking something about me and repossession of a (Tesla) car in Atlanta. This was an apparent reference to what I went through buying a new car in Albuquerque. The legal wording in the documents I was provided for the car purchase and also in my apartment lease has clear signs that they viewed me as property (a human trafficking victim). I stopped breathing from carbon monoxide and nitrous gas poisoning after having to drive that car through Yellowstone National Park, which I got badly trapped / lost in with GPS directions on a hacked cell phone that had malware installed on it. My cat and I were tortured driving in that car for weeks there.
- I was severely drugged by the respondent, who lived down the hall from me in Atlanta and would not have hesitated to just key into my apartment to steal my prescription medications like Adderall or drug me by slipping something into my open containers. Within a month of him moving in at the beginning of 2020, I was in the emergency room for signs of a stroke. I ended up in the ER in Atlanta several times over the drugging and for severe UTI symptoms that were abnormal for me up to that point. Most people I tried to appeal to stop Zack from this covered for him by denying he could get into my locked apartment or not taking the repeated abnormal medical symptoms seriously.
- In conversation with the respondent in Atlanta, before my mother told me to cut off all contact with him after she talked to the Georgia Tech dean of students following a severe drugging incident, he communicated that he had been living on the border of Florida and Georgia, near Pensacola where my immediate family were living at the time. The last known phone number I have for the respondent (229-300-3231) has an area code that puts him near where my immediate family lived in Northern Florida. I believe that that geographic connection is why men like him and Andre Torres came into our life and caused my family and I harm. One of the GTPD officers responding at my door in Atlanta after I reported on of 2–3 incidents of theft of my prescription medications was someone I recognized as being affiliated with the Pensacola Sheriff's office.

There was another incident in my on-campus apartment in Atlanta in 2020 where someone had broken into (keyed in, or picked the lock) my apartment. A laptop I had in my second bedroom office had the case broken, as though done hastily in a rage, and had an internal SATA hard drive removed from it (stolen from my locked personal residence). To remove the stolen hard drive, it should usually require removing multiple screws around the laptop case (time consuming) and removing other internal parts of the computer that were on top of it. I believe that the action was retaliation for my posting files archived on that laptop (a secondary computer that I used only occasionally, and that he may not have known about) providing images, screenshots and binary files documenting malware that I had recovered from an old cell phone to a GitHub repository. I believe it was the respondent that is guilty of the bold and angry action. He was living a short distance from my front door at the time and would have been one of the few people in a sparsely populated building during the pandemic with access to do that in a ten minute or so time period when I left my apartment to smoke a cigarette outside of the building. Some of the data in the files could have identified him if a savvy security expert analyzed them, and hence, the reason for his apparent rage in taking the rest of my archived files on the laptop out of my possession by the theft.

There were obvious fingerprints on the dusty inside of the laptop case that would not have been mine as I opened the remains of the broken computer case in front of the GTPD (campus police) that responded at my apartment to take the police report. The campus police refused to analyze the fingerprints inside of the laptop because some of them could have been mine. This is the type of excuse enabling the respondent's inappropriate behavior that I have had to put up with from out-of-state authorities that should be willing to protect me and act on my behalf to stop him. I hesitate to mention that there may have been undertones of a threat at ME, as in MY fingerprints were also on the stolen property in MY apartment, but that attitude has so far been very common in people that cover for the respondent's actions and aggression towards me. The laptop case with the missing / stolen internal hard drive and fingerprint evidence is, to the best of my knowledge, still in storage in an evidence locker with the Georgia Tech Police Department (GTPD).

- The respondent made comments in front of me in Atlanta about everyone who lives down the hall from him ends up hating him as a preview for what he would put me through. He also made allusion to him having lived down the hall from me in 2014–2015 in Seattle, Washington where I was severely drugged in my apartment (building bought out by new management the week I moved in) and brutally raped.
- The respondent tried to get me to take all sorts of illegal controlled substances he was in possession of. This includes offering me Molly / MDMA the night before I had to teach calculus as instructor of record for the first time (I declined). The man is an unstable hard drug addict. He showed a copy of a print book of how to make street drugs at home. I told some people at the time that I believed it was a copy of the drug section of the infamous banned book, the Anarchist Cookbook. He wanted me to touch the book which I would not do.
- I am in the process of getting an attorney to deal with the financial fraud I experienced over the respondent living in close proximity to me. In Atlanta, this includes his unpaid Nationwide car insurance bill being put on my credit report. I learned in Albuquerque that someone else had taken out a Georgia state driver's license in my name. I am unable to get a picture of the photo on that ID without going through a lawyer from Chicago. There is much more to the history of me and my bank accounts being fraudulently ripped off. This includes Bank of America credit card late fees that were abnormally high at $225 a month my last year in Atlanta. That number is significant to the history with the respondent.
- I have experienced illicit electronic surveillance for years. I believe this is due to illegal actions by the respondent. This includes malware and remote surveillance tools being installed on my computers, tablets and cell phones for him to stalk me and gain access to my sensitive personal information. I used Google LENS to recognize that a 'heat detector' in my apartment was actually an IR camera. The GTPD and housing people at Georgia Tech refused to let me take it down claiming it was an essential component of their fire safety systems. I had a campus police officer show up at my door in Atlanta to force me to put the device back up. How would they have known an illicit camera device had been taken down in my closed apartment?