

Apples To Apples - Rules Variations

Democratic Apples**

Full Text Description

- Sometimes, people don't always agree with a judge's decision. In this Apples To Apples variation, the judge picks the top two apples. Then, everyone in the game votes (once) for the one they like the best. If there is a tie, the judge's vote is used as the tie breaker.

Summary Of The Rules Differences

- Instead of picking the one winner, the judge chooses two, and the players vote on the winner.
- If there is a tie, the winning apples is the one that the judge voted for.
